Information on the use of Cookies

To help improve the browsing experience of users, Fintyre S.p.A. installs some cookies on the users' computer.
The present Policy describes different types of cookies that can be used on the site owned by Fintyre S.p.A. (Hereinafter referred to as "Site"), and is subject to change.
Any changes to this Policy shall enter into force with the publication of the same on the Site.

What is a Cookie?
Cookies are text files stored by computer or mobile device, when you visit a website. They are commonly used to run websites or, to be more precise, run them more efficiently, to record user data that will be used to facilitate future use of the site by the user.

Which cookies do we use?
Statistical analysis Cookies: These cookies collect information during the use of the Site, allowing us to improve its functioning, and obtain some static data such as: most visited pages, daily access, monthly access, etc. This information is useful to understand how the Site is used and not paying attention to the activities of an individual user.
This Site uses Google Analytics, a web service for analysis of statistics provided by a third company (Google). The information generated by the cookie is transmitted from the browser to Google and stored on servers in the United States and other countries. Google will process this information in order to evaluate your use of this Site. The IP address obtained by Google Analytics will not be associated with other data held by Google.
You can choose to disable or block Google cookies by selecting the appropriate settings on your browser. You can download and install the browser add-on for excluding Google Analytics, available at this link: http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout
Functional cookies are used to remember the settings chosen by the user in their last visit. They serve to provide a more comprehensive service to improve the visit and user experience on the Site. Cookies in this category include both persistent cookies and session cookies.

What happens to the third-party cookies?
The Site may contain direct links to websites of third parties which may apply a Policy on Cookies different from that adopted by this Site. Since we do not control any of the third party cookies used for these purposes, please consult the website of the third party to clarify what practices and related control systems are applied before clicking the link on the Site.

How do I manage cookies?
You can reject, accept or remove the cookies from the Site at any time by activating the settings or accessing the browser. Information on the procedures for enabling, disabling or removing cookies is available on the website, accessible from your help screen on the browser. If you wish, you can check information about these major browsers:

- Google Chrome: https://support.google.com/chrome/answer/95647?hl=it
- Mozilla Firefox https://support.mozilla.org/it/kb/Attivare%20e%20disattivare%20i%20cookie
- Opera: http://help.opera.com/Windows/10.00/it/cookies.html
- Safari: https://support.apple.com/it-it/HT201265
- Internet Explorer: http://windows.microsoft.com/it-it/internet-explorer/delete-manage-cookies#ie=ie-11

For what purposes are the different types of data collected ?

When you visit the website, Fintyre S.p.A. can collect the following technical information (they can't identify you): your operative system and your browser, the domain of another website you visited to reach us, the time and duration of your visit, the page you visited etc.

The cookies used on our Website never collect anything that personally identifies you, such as your name or address; cookies only help us improve the performance of our Website by enabling us to:

- Measure how people are using our services in order to improve our services and browsing experience
- Remember information about your preferences and recognize you when you return to our Website
- Speed up your searches